(please print)

On Friday, May 21, 2004, an exam letter was generated by the Elections Division and mailed to my office in Newport, Oregon. On Sunday, May 23, 2004, I left for a much-needed vacation post-election, and relieved my staff of one of election duties. When I returned 2½ weeks later, the exam letter was with my mail. I responded the same day with the corrections that were required for the 2nd pre-election report. However, the day I returned from vacation was after the June 3, 2004 deadline that had been set in the May 21 exam letter. There was no malfeasance or intent to obstruct the proper reporting of my C&E; I missed the deadline because I was out of town and was unaware that a deadline had been set. All the errors in this and all other reports were corrected as soon as I became aware of the need to make corrections.
